WHO'S WHO IN THE CAST

Henry Jiang (Henry) makes his return to the stage after a 15-year hiatus. Recent credits include a villainous role from elementary school in a play that he does not remember, and a very dramatic, slightly inaccurate version of Macbeth at SPARC, although he only got to Act II. Henry's talents include listing every state in Brazil and being loud.

Emily Yu (Emily) is delighted to be making her theater debut with SPARC: the musical. When she is not lifting weights at the gym or trying to pitch various requests to David, you can find her organizing the SPARC Talent Show.

Yan Zhang (Yan) wears many hats at SPARC. This musical encapsulates the teachings in his course titled "Why Everything at SPARC is Wrong."

Holden Mui is a composer and musician. He likes turtles and Ravel.

Nancy Zuo likes musicals, metaphors, and drawing satirical editorial art.

Maria Kostylew (Damon) leads karaoke initiatives at SPARC. In her free time, she is exasperatedly answering questions about her AGI timeline.

Sequoia Ding (SPARC Alum) is a semi-professional birdwatcher and theater hobbyist. Favorite credits include Adelaide in Guys and Dolls and Chip in Beauty and the Beast. She is interested in going on a boba run if there are any staff members willing to accompany her.

Krittika Chandra (CJ) is 15. She once performed in Once Upon a Mattress.

Erick Zhao (Erick) has a dog named Chess.

Chelsea Guo (Narrator) wrote these bios.
